Don't run out of time to stream Anika Joshi's new single, which takes you back to a nostalgic synth-pop sound that will have you dancing for hours.

Australian based singer-songwriter, Anika Joshi is set to release her brand new single 'Running out of Time,' on January the 23rd. Starting off the fresh new year with a timeless upbeat groove, this song takes one through the emotions of hope, desire and fear to encapsulate intense lyricism leaving the listener in wonderment.

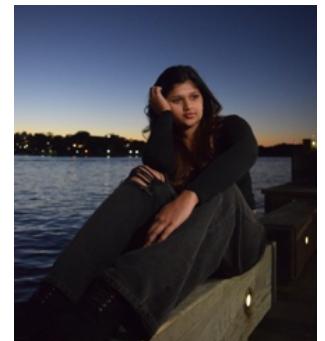

After spontaneously humming the hook of the song and quickly noting it down, Anika sat with her guitar and voice notes to build up this song, based on the raw lyrics of 'I'm here I'm waiting for you,' inspired by the cinematic cliché of pleading for someone's love in the rain. The song depicts the uneasy and heart fluttering feeling of waiting around for a yearning of love to be reciprocated.

Produced by Emmy and ARIA award winner Sean Carey, with keys by Beau Golden, the track intertwines melodious synths with powerful vocal hooks. Following the radio and streaming success of her single 'Magnetic Glow,' Anika explores more of her musical variety with this release.

Anika comments, 'Writing both the melody and lyrics for Running out of Time, allowed me to prove to myself that I could create raw and intense stories, whilst creating high energy beats. I love the theme of urgency that comes with any rainy movie scene, so I really tried to encapsulate that feeling with this song.'

An emotionally versatile songwriter, Anika Joshi carefully interweaves her intricate writing with a range of jazzy, R&B and pop beats to create a flavourful vision of music. With influences from Amy Winehouse, Taylor Swift, Daniel Caesar & Reneé Rapp, she highlights her unique vibrato and powerful soul notes to create an intense and flavourful performance for all to enjoy. Anika has spread her craft of music through live performances, openings for professional artists, radio interviews, charity events, social media, studio recordings and vocal teaching. The success of her previous release 'Magnetic Glow,' saw international radio stations and reached over 23,000 worldwide streams.

Anika is an extremely gifted musician. She's a wonderful songwriter and an effortless singer. She has a vision which she is following and is just so easy to work with.' - Sean Carey, Emmy Winning Music Producer.
